

Day of the garden 2020

„Allotment gardens – green that unifies“

This is the motto for the day of the garden 2020, which is celebrated throughout Germany since 1984 naturally on the second Sunday in June. The central event on 14th June 2020 around the associative home of the Hannover district federation was cancelled due to the corona-virus crisis. Other host federations should have been Braunschweig and Lower Saxony. However, numerous allotment garden sites throughout Germany will open their doors all over the year to celebrate this event and give curious visitors a taste of garden life. In 2020 the day of the garden should once again remind us of the many ways in which (allotment) garden enriches life.
