

An example of a successful cross-border cooperation

The largest gardening fare in the Nordics, “Nordiska Trädgårdar “, took place from 25th until 28th March 2021. Due to the current circumstances the fair was a virtual one.

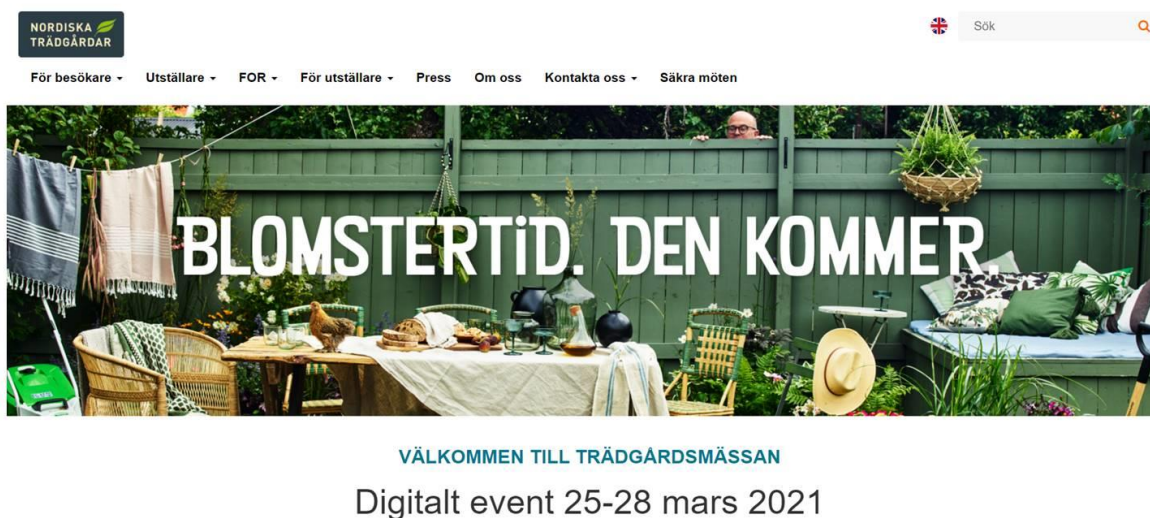

Ulrica OTTERLING, director of the Swedish allotment federation kindly contacted Tina WESSMAN, her homologue at the Finnish office asking if they would like to join with an own digital showcase. And of course they did!

Tina straight away prepared two lectures and also received a lovely video presenting the only Swedish-speaking association (and the oldest one on its original spot) in Helsinki. An additional video from the association, was based on a documentary the Finnish public broadcaster YLE had ordered and that was aired when the association celebrated 100 years in 2018 was received.

The lecture ‘Allotment gardens in Finland’ shortly covered the history of allotment gardening and the Finnish federation, and somewhat emphasized the special features of allotments in the country. The lecture 'What are the allotment gardeners in Finland like' presented the federation’s environmental project and the types of allotment gardeners that were found based on an analysis from an extensive survey (presented in Hyphen 69).

The event was very successful
