

Interview with Phil Gomersall, President of the National Allotment Society, in "The Yorkshire Post".

In this article worth reading, as part of the National Gardening Week, Phil Gomersall reports on the appeal of allotments.

In his unique way, he describes both his personal experiences that led him to his passion and the question of what makes gardening so special.

He emphasises the social and ecological aspects that lead to an increasing interest in new allotment garden plots.

Phil Gomersall, president of the National Allotment Society, on his plot in Rawdon. Picture: Simon Hulme

Read the full article here and let yourself be infected by this passion.

Appeal of allotments as Leeds waiting lists grow: They're the 'best thing since sliced bread'

By Ruby Kitchen, The Yorkshire Post, 5 May 2022

<https://www.yorkshirepost.co.uk/lifestyle/family-and-parenting/appeal-of-allotments-as-leeds-waiting-lists-grow-theyre-the-best-thing-since-sliced-bread-3680852>

National Gardening Week (2-8 May 2022)

<https://www.rhs.org.uk/get-involved/national-gardening-week/>